

Killer Instinct

What adult doesn't look back on their childhood and remember their love for hide and seek? It was the ultimate game as a kid. You can feel that thrill again, but add to it the thrill of scaring your guests half to death at the same time. Here's how you play:

You'll need one "seeker" and one helper. Tell the guests to all hide. Give them two or three minutes. While they're hiding, go into another room and put on a scary costume. Once everyone is hidden and you're ready, have the helper turn out all the lights in the house. One by one, find the hiders with a flashlight and scare them in your scary costume. Once they're found, send them to the "graveyard," a room in the house, where they'll lie with their arms folded like corpses. Give a fun prize to the last person found.
